Away With It.

Must Lie, So Lie Low. Protectionists invite and encourage discussion of the tariff and of our industrial interests in general. The more the subject is examined fairly and dispassionately, the greater is the gain for the sionately, the greater is the gain for the cause of home industry. On the other hand, free traders, tariff reformers and the like are engaged in a conspiracy of as quickly as they could. silence. The word seems to have been passed along to the free trade press to lie low-to discourage discussion of the tariff and to divert attention from it to the currency question or any other subject except that one which is the

A False Balance Sheet.

The treasury department presented a statement for September showing receipts somewhat over $3,000,000 in excess of expenditures. This statement is The sugar producers of the United States have not yet been paid the $5,000,000 due to them, the anthority to pay which was given by the last congress. It is a just debt owing by the government, and so long as $1 of it remains unpaid the administration cannot claim that its revenue exceeds the needs of the government. The September statement is false. While Uncle Sam owes money to the sugar producers or to any one else a surplus of revenue cannot be claimed. Needful Change.

The hush of slumber rests upon the earth; The clouds are still, as if in stient blessing; And the soft winds that sweep the failing fields. Have in their whisper something of caressing.

Along the borders of the dusty road.

The silvery thistis down is lightly drifting.

And changeful colors sweep the landscape o'er.
